Catherine McAuley

About Mercy

A young Irish woman named Catherine McAuley received an unexpected inheritance from a couple she lived with and for whom she provided care. She used those funds to open the first House of Mercy, serving impoverished women and children in Dublin, Ireland.

Catherine founded the Sisters of Mercy in 1831, a new kind of religious community – one that lived outside cloistered walls. They devoted their lives to ministering to the sick, poor and uneducated. They set up 14 Houses of Mercy across Ireland and England in the span of 15 years. By 1853, the Sisters were working on several continents.

The Sisters of Mercy arrived in St. Louis in 1856 to help the poor and sick. Their mission continues today at Mercy Hospital South.

Our Commitment

Mercy Hospital South's Current Priorities

Corporate gifts will help fund projects that transform health care in our community including Mental Health, Cancer Care and Women's and Hospice.

According to the National Institute of Mental Health, just over 20% of American teens currently have, or have had, a debilitating mental health condition.

Mental Health

Your gifts support Hyland Behavioral Health Adolescent Intensive Outpatient Program, and help individuals in crisis regain their optimum level of functioning and achieve a renewed sense of emotional stability and wellness by providing services both in the hospital and outpatient settings.

Approximately 40% of women and men will be diagnosed with cancer at some point in their lifetime, according to the National Cancer Institute.

Cancer Care

Your support funds a Cancer Navigation program at the new David M. Sindelar Cancer Center on the campus of Mercy Hospital South. Cancer navigators are clinical experts who help each patient navigate their cancer journey by providing support, answering questions and coordinating care, including scheduling appointments, tests and screenings.

According to the National Hospice and Palliative Care Organization, over 50% of Medicare decedents received hospice care in 2018.

Hospice

Your gifts help provide comfort and dignity for each patient in their final days, support families navigating end of life, promote healing through counseling and assist those grieving the death of a loved one. Mercy South provides compassionate care for hospice patients who are uninsured or underinsured.
